ART AND MONEY

1 ___ In 2006 a Mexican businessman paid $140 million for No 5 1948, by American artist Jackson Pollock. It was the most expensive painting ever sold. But is any work of art worth such an incredible price? Pollock created his abstract swirls of colour by dripping paint onto the canvas, often dancing as he did it and for many in the art world, he was a genius. Not everyone agrees though; one critic has compared his paintings to wallpaper!

2 ___ At least Jackson Pollock was appreciated during his lifetime. Not all great artists have been so lucky. Dutch artist Vincent Van Gogh only sold one painting in his entire career and his brother had to support him financially throughout his life. He died of poverty at the age of 37, unknown to the world. Yet a hundred years later, almost any work by Van Gogh is worth millions. His Portrait of Dr Gachet sold for $82.3 m in 1990.

3 ___ Other artists are more fortunate in their lifetime: Picasso and Dali were multimillionaires when they died. The controversial British artist Damien Hirst is perhaps the most successful living artist of all: in 2008, a sale of his work raised $198 million. However, he doesn't usually make the works himself – that is done by assistants. As a conceptual artist, he believes it is the artist's original idea that makes something into a work of art. Typical Hirst pieces include a dead shark, which sold in 2004 for $12 million. However, Hirst claims that he „always ignores money”.

4 ___ For some people, this is not art at all. There was great controversy when My Bed, a work by conceptual artist Tracey Emin, was displayed in one of London's top art galleries. Many visitors were horrified by the unmade bed, complete with dirty sheets and underwear, and one lady even tried to tidy it up! However, the artist had the last laugh – after the exhibition, the bed sold for £200,000.

5 ___ Even graffiti makes money these days. Take the mysterious graffiti artist, „Banksy”, whose „street art”, with its strong political and social messages, appears on walls and buildings all over the world. No one knows who Banksy actually is, but his work now sells for hundreds of thousands of dollars, and celebrity collectors include Angelina Jolie and Christina Aguilera. However, not everyone is impressed. After all graffiti is against the law!

ZNO task: READING

- A It's the creative idea that counts.
- B An unknown artist creates works that are in demand.
- C Successful work, despite mixed reactions.
- D In the past, artists had to suffer from poverty.
- E The richest artist of our times.
- F The controversy about the value of some works of art.
- G Fame after death.
- H Not everyone appreciates street art.

Charles Darwin

(1809 – 1882)

Developed a revolutionary theory of evolution that transformed the way we understand the world and we see ourselves. In On the Origin of Species, published in 1859, Darwin described the process of natural selection. The „fittest“ animals or plants – those with the characteristics best suited (1) _____ their environment – are more likely to survive and reproduce. They then pass on these desirable characteristics to their offspring. Slowly those features become more (2) _____, and that is why species change over time. If the changes are big enough, they can produce an absolutely new species. The Descent of Man, published in 1871, suggested that humans descended from apes.

DID YOU KNOW?

- When Darwin studied medicine, he witnessed an operation performed on a child without anaesthetic. That made him give (3) _____ medical studies. He then studied theology but, instead of becoming a priest, in 1831 he set off on a five-year scientific expedition around the world. There he collected evidence for his future theory.
- One of the key arguments (4) _____ natural selection came from the birds that Darwin collected from the Galapagos Islands. The birds were clearly the same species but some had large strong beaks for eating nuts while others had long thin beaks for finding worms in the ground. Darwin realised that all came from a single ancestor but, as they spread to different islands, they (5) _____ to eat the different foods available.
- Darwin developed the theory of evolution in (6) _____ but he didn't talk about it then. He knew his ideas were radical so he delayed (7) _____ his theory for about twenty years while he assembled more evidence.
